

THE STREAMLINERS - Reviews & Quotes

Moondogs is not a good roots or blues album ...it's an exceptionally excellent album full stop.....this deserves national and international recognition.

Radio Adelaide FM

I've considered Nick and Sav as 2 of the best guitarists in SA.....and this album "Moondogs" certain showcases this.....I just can't work out why this band isn't one of the biggest thing Nationally in the roots music scene.

Saturday Blues, Radio Adelaide FM

the chemistry of these 4 musicians is phenomenal....rarely can you see music played live with so much intensity and verve....

'Blues Power' 3D Radio FM

The streamliners are an institution for roots music in Australia.....by far one of the best bands around

'Blues Power' 3D Radio FM

Strong live performances, unique dual guitar arrangements, strong rich vocals, great originals coupled with a solid rhythm section.....this is roots music at its best.

The guitar show 2006

The Streamliners have got to be one of the best, tightest, and most talented bands playing around today.....their playing is spot on, the singer, Nick's voice is deep and pure, and their soloing capabilities are phenomenal. Believe me, the Streamliners are an entity that have to be witnessed to be fully appreciated.

Stix & Thongs

.....they are possibly two of the best guitarists in SA.

3D Radio FM

It's the strong mature, soulful vocals of .... The Streamliners' Nick Kipridis that stands out so prominently."

Rhythms Magazine

Soul drenched vocals backed by two guitars. Excellent four piece.

Ballaratt Blues Festival

The Streamliners were at one time one of Adelaide's best-kept secrets and may have stayed that way if it wasn't for the Blues Club Record's release "Deep South" of 1994..... The band followed this with their independent debut release, "Waiting On You", which superbly demonstrated their musical prowess. While not definitely constrained within the blues idiom, the rootsy feel coupled with a more cosmopolitan flavour, and combined with the earthy vocal delivery of Nick Kipridis, found instant acceptance among a wide musical fraternity...

Highway 49 News

The Streamliners' "Two Minutes To Curtains" EP, long-rumoured and recently released, is a long playing seven-track EP of superbly captured live performance: crisp clean sound and tight knit performance.....

Highway 49 News

The guitarists work brilliantly together, always playing for the song rather than the ego.
